Aim For Safety

PREVENTION OF BLINDNESS SOCIETY WARNS

In an effort to carry eye safety into the woodlands of America this season, Franklin D. Kizer, Safety Committee Chairmen of the Virginia Society for the Prevention of Blindness offers hunters several tips for saving sight and lives.

Recalling the many incidents of hunters mistaking other people for animals, the Virginia Society urges all hunters' to have a complete eye examination before the start of each hunting season.

"Of course anyone with blurred vision should wear corrective lenses when stepping on hunting ground," reports Kizer. "Astigmatism, reduced field of vision, farsightedness and color deficiency all affect target perception and visual acuity, and may result in blinding accidents, even death."

The Society warns every hunter to wear industrial strength safety lenses in a safety frame for maximum eye protection while hunting or shooting. "Ejecting shells, stray pellets, twigs that may fly into the eye while scrambling through the brush, or a fall on rough ground may shatter impact - resistant streetwear lenses," Kizer warns. "Real safety glasses will give the eyes the protection needed for the hazards in the woods."

Hunters are reminded that sunglasses often cause a loss of visibility, particularly once the sun starts to set, increasing the task of distinguishing colors. Sunglasses should always be removed before driving after dusk when dim light makes it more difficult to see moving objects.

"Deficient eyesight and lack of proper eye protection play leading roles in many hunting accidents," Kizer says. "The number of preventable eye accidents can be dramatically reduced if hunters are examined for possible eye problems and don safety eyewear before they head for the woodlands."

The Virginia Society is an affiliate of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, founded in 1908 to prevent blindness through a comprehensive program of community service, public and professional education and research.

enterprise system. This in itself is highly commendable because nowhere in our educational system is free enterprise demonstrated so adequately as in the Distributive Education curriculum.

This approach to education not only develops competent personnel for merchandising, marketing, and management, but also prepares our youth for better citizenship. We congratulate and salute both school administrators and businessmen on the observance of National DECA Week.

VA Questions & Answers

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following are representative questions answered daily by VA counselors. Full informaiton is available at any VA office.

Q - A veteran in receipt of pension dies on the last day of the month. Is his widow entitled to receive and negotiate the check received on the first of the following month?

A - No. The check should be returned. In order to establish entitlement, the veteran must be alive for the complete month. The widow may be entitled to death benefits and any accrued amount due a deceased beneficiary.

Q - How is educational entitlement charged for flight training?

A - One month of entitlement is charged for each $270 paid to the veteran.

Q - I have a $10,000 National Service Life Insurance policy. It is a term contract and the premium escalates every five years. The cost is becoming prohibitive and I would like to know if there are any options available to me?

A - You may convert your term policy to a permanent contract. In addition to a stabilized premium, your policy will accure a cash value.

Q - Are veterans with a service-connected disability requiring a prosthetic device entitled to a VA clothing allowance?

A - Yes. The annual $190 allowance is paid Sept. 1.

Q-I have been separated from active service for seven months. Am I eligible for VA dental treatment?

A-Veterans have one year from separation date to apply for dental treatment from the VA. Any treatment thereafter can be granted only for conditions resulting from combat injuries, service training or prisoner of war status or as an adjunct to a service-connected disability.

Q-What is required to obtain waiver of premium on an NSLI policy and can it be retroactive?

A-Waiver of NSLI premiums may be granted when the insured becomes totally disabled before his/her 65th birthday and continued for six or more months while the insurance premiums are still being paid.Total disability is defined as any impairment of mind and body which continously renders it impossible for the insured to be gainfully employed. Waiver can be retroactive up to one year if the six-month requirement is met.

Q-May a student buy back his entitlement for training under the GI Bill?

A-Yes. If benefits have been paid for one or more intervals between terms, without specific request from the student and the checks have been negotiated, the student may reimburse the VA and have entitlement restored for as many such intervals as may be required to allow payment for enrollment in one additional term. Only one such election is permitted.
